CAUSE

On February 10, 2008, Celeste Albert was arrested by Yakama Nation Tribal Police Officers for obstruction of justice. According to an incident report, a Federal fugitive who had eluded police officers in a stolen vehicle ran into the defendant's residence. The defendant denied any knowledge of the suspect, but after a search of the residence, the suspect was found hiding in a crawl space underneath the home.

On February 25, 2008, the defendant reported to the U.S. Probation Office and admitted to failing to notify her supervising probation officer of the above contact with law enforcement. Ms. Albert related the Federal fugitive was her nephew and she was aware that he had an active warrant for his arrest. She related she was reluctant to disclose his whereabouts to law enforcement officials out of fear of incarceration and because she did not want her nephew to be arrested.

Ms. Albert is currently unemployed, but is job searching. As a corrective measure, the defendant has agreed to complete 40 hours of community service. Enclosed is a waiver signed by the defendant agreeing to the above modification of her conditions of supervised release.
